Uber to buy Mideast rival Careem for $3.1b

Global ride-hailing giant Uber will acquire its Middle East rival Careem for $3.1 billion in the region's largest technology industry transaction, the two companies announced on Tuesday. The deal boosts Uber's worldwide presence ahead of a keenly anticipated stock market debut. "Careem and Uber are joining forces. We have reached an agreement in which Uber will acquire Careem for $3.1 billion," a joint statement said. Under the deal, Careem will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Uber but the two app-based transport and delivery companies will continue operating independently, the statement said.

Jordan, Mexico discuss trade relations, agreements signed, more to follow

The Senate's Jordan-Mexico Friendship Committee headed by Rida Khawaldeh on Tuesday met with Mexican Ambassador Enrique Rojo Stein. Senator Khawaldeh expressed appreciation for the ambassador's role in bolstering the two countries' mutual ties, calling on him to support developing and expanding political and joint trade relations, the Jordan News Agency, Petra, reported. Stein reviewed the embassy's achievements realised during his work in the Kingdom for 4 years including the establishment of the Mexican embassy, noting that direct trade between the Kingdom and Mexico has also reached $40 million while indirect trade through the US totalled at $320 million. During the meeting, he also noted that a cooperation agreement has been signed between the Jordanian Businessmen Association and the Arab Mexican Chamber of Industry and Commerce in Mexico, adding that other agreements are underway in the fields of security, customs and civil aviation.

CBJ launches Cloud Computing Guidelines, Microsoft hopes to assist financial sector transition

The Central Bank of Jordan (CBJ) on Monday issued the "Cloud Computing Guidelines" in an effort to regulate the digitisation and cloud transition processes for companies in the financial sector. The announcement was made during an event hosted by Microsoft on the financial services industry in Jordan, aimed at raising awareness of the company's cloud solutions. According to an official statement sent to The Jordan Times, the guidelines will provide recommendations on cloud computing solutions, outsourcing related operations and data security.
